

Zeus did seduce Leda in the shape of a swan, but she actually laid four eggs, which gave birth to two pairs of twins: 2 boys, Castor and Pollux (the Twins in the Zodiac), and 2 girls, Helen of Troy and Clytemnestra. Two of the children were divine, one boy and one girl, Helen, while the other two were mortal. The girls later married two brothers: Helen married Menelaus (before eloping to Troy with Paris) and Clytemnestra married Agamemnon, who later led the Greeks to besiege Troy and get back Helen from Paris.

LEDA E IL CIGNO di Luca Vitagliano

Leda

disegni dell'autore

disegni dell'autore

Leda

CIGNO - SWAN

disegni dell'autore

CIGNO - SWAN

La A e' automatica Fold A is automatic.

disegni dell'autore

